The founder of the revolutionary, remarkable, patented Elastilon systems was OSBE Parket BV of Eindhoven. The worldwide success of this advanced method led the company to split off a part of the company to form Elastilon BV.

The way a company operates internally determines, to a large degree, the face it presents to the world. Therefore we think of ourselves more as a close-knit club than a company – we place a high value on loyalty and fraternity. In addition to the 20 or so employees who work at our production facilities, our staff consists of about a dozen highly educated personnel, including two wood technologists.

Elastilon BV is a well organised and extraordinarily active company. The company is a key player in the branch, and the patents it has obtained have led the company to establish contacts throughout the world.

The superb characteristics of the ELASTILON systems are confirmed and emphasized by the fact that these patents are often infringed, while a second indicator is that at any given moment, somewhere in the world, Elastilon systems are being installed.

Thirdly, in our branch there is no product imaginable for which the demand is so high and which is sold so easily, in such large quantities, throughout the world. The most important proof of this value, however, is that Elastilon does not focus on the market but rather the market comes to Elastilon.
